

THEME: FOOD, RELATIONSHIPS & THE ENVIRONMENT

The gospel shouldn't just lead to the transformation of individual lives, it can also have a lasting impact on the wider culture. But how can we see that happen today?

BIBLICAL THINKING FOR PUBLIC LIFE

SOCIAL REFORM

The summer school will inspire you with stories of Christian social reformers from the past, equip you with a biblical strategy and principles for transformation in the present, and help you take steps personally towards becoming a social reformer in the future.

This year's school will focus on food, relationships & the environment as we explore how to bring a distinctly biblical influence to bear on this complex issue.

PROGRAMME

Taste and see that the Lord is good! Psalm 34:8

DAY 1: PROFILES OF SOCIAL REFORMERS

Looking at the lives of Wendell Berry (the 'father of Christian agrarianism') and Henry Dunant (founder of the Red Cross), we'll explore what it takes to become a person who makes a lasting impact in society, in line with God's priorities.

DAY 2: FOUNDATIONS FOR SOCIAL REFORM

Social justice language is everywhere, but what constitutes a specifically biblical approach to changing society? We consider a biblical and relational framework for social reform, and examine its application in the area of food, relationships and the environment.

DAY 3: 'WHERE DO I START?'

Through a comprehensive workshop you will learn how to define a social issue, build a team and design a strategy for leading initiatives that can make a lasting impact for individuals and wider society.

The Summer School includes lectures, workshops, films, group discussions and collaboration, along with a Christian heritage walking tour and a gala dinner.

FEEDBACK FROM 2018 PARTICIPANTS

'For those interested in learning how they can be social reformers, this is an opportunity to shape your vision and gain inspiration for how to start.'

'The Summer School is a remarkable investment into your understanding of culture and into your journey to influence it for the kingdom.'

'Anyone with even the most nebulous questions about being a Christian in the public square should seriously consider going.'

WHO IS IT FOR? The Summer School is for people aged between 18 and 40 who are recent graduates, young professionals and others in business, public services or the charity sector.
